Florida Rep. Matt Gaetz addressing the student loan debate after being called out by the White House.

On his Firebrand podcast, Rep. Matt Gaetz says instead of forgiving student loan debt, people who fall victim to predatory systems should be able to declare bankruptcy.

Rep. Gaetz says such a move would bring down the federal system of subsidising student loans.

The comments come after the White House called out a number of lawmakers including Gaetz, who are criticizing the Biden Administration's plan to wipe away some student loan debt claiming Gaetz had nearly half a million dollars in PPP loans forgiven.
